

Connection diagram with Network video recorder

Network video recorder

The video signal can be forwarded to the NVR via the network-compatible RTSP stream generated by the IP encoder. In the NVR, 8, 16 or 32 video signals can be streamed to the browser, recorded and transferred to mobile devices using the corresponding app. This allows the production process to be monitored in real time and crucial information to be obtained for the continuous optimization of the process.

