

Connection diagram with Video-Recorder

The recorder is used to record and save the entire production process. The recorder is connected directly between the camera and the monitor. The recording and playback function is possible without a connection to the network.

Video-Recorder

